What's New in the Quick Calendar?

Handy small app that makes you check out the dates of your choice using a calendar (without going to the Internet). WinKernelPager is a pager utility application that can display multiple pages. The program can contain as many as 100 pages if they are added to the configuration file. When you launch the application, you will be able to enter the number of pages that you want to display on the current screen. The command for changing the number of pages is Page up. Pages can be added with the Page down command. You will also be able to navigate through the pages with the Page up and Page down keys. You can start the application with the WinKernelPager shortcut or launch the program from the Start menu. The program allows you to display pages in the form of thumbnails on the desktop, in a new window, or on the taskbar. The list of all the pages can be displayed on the tray, or the pages may be copied to the clipboard to be pasted in other applications. Features The program allows you to display a maximum of 100 pages. Each page can be added to the configuration file. You can display all pages at once or select one of them with a mouse click. You can open new pages with a hot key, or add more pages with the Page down key. You can add more than one page and remove a page from the configuration file. To open the program with a single page, you need to enter the number of the page using the keypad or by entering its page number in the configuration file. You can configure the program to hide the page list after you enter a page number or specify the number of pages to be shown. Pages can be added to the clipboard, and you can paste them in other applications. You can view only one page at a time or view all pages in a window. You can change the font size for the pages with the Page settings button. You can use the Page up and Page down keys to move to the next or previous page. You can change the number of lines that each page has with the Page settings button. Saves the configuration file when you close the application and restores the settings when you reopen it.
